Quebec Liberals Return to Office With More Power

Conservatives Retain Eleven Seats With Four of Five New Seats Won by Taschereau Government—Hon. Gordon W. Scott Only Minister Defeated

MONTREAL, Aug. 24 (CP).—After thirty-four years of power, the Liberal Government of the ancient Province of Quebec was today swept back into office stronger than ever before, after what is conceded to be the most dangerous bid for victory the Conservative party has made since 1897.

Premier L. A. Taschereau tonight commanded seventy-nine seats in the Legislative Assembly, provided the official return on declaration day bore out the figures announced tonight by the returning officers. The Opposition, their least defeated in both of the Montreal seats in which he was a candidate, had but eleven seats, equal to their number at dissolution.

TWICE DEFEATED
After a whirlwind campaign, in which he delivered almost sixty speeches throughout the province in ten days, Mayor Camille Houde met defeat in both St. Mary and St. James, Montreal. He has represented St. Mary for the past eight years, but contested St. James as well in order, he said, to make a place for a minister who was not a candidate in today's elections.

Premier L. A. Taschereau and all his ministers were returned by comfortable majorities, with the solitary exception of Hon. Gordon W. Scott, who was defeated in the provincial seat of St. George.

Liberalism today gained the following five seats: From Conservatives, Laval, Montreal, Dorion, Montreal, Ste. Marie and Sherbrooke; from Labor, Malouine. Conservatives captured the following four seats, all from Liberals: Chamblay, Rouville, St. Sauveur and Yamaska.

FOUR NEW SEATS
Four out of the five new seats provided by the last Redistribution Act returned Liberals today. The net increase in Premier Taschereau's followers will be therefore at least five, although the number of Conservatives remains stationary.

In a statement issued tonight at Quebec City, Premier Taschereau described today's result as one of the greatest victories in the history of the Liberal party and attributed it to the honest and progressive administration of his Government in the past. "The Province has spoken," said Mayor Camille Houde, leader of the Conservatives, and expressed the conviction that he had done his duty throughout the campaign.

A HOT FIGHT
After a campaign featured by hundreds of enthusiastic meetings, with several accidental shootings and a number of free-for-all fights, election day itself was one of the hottest in the history of political warfare in the province.

MAYNE ISLAND RESIDENT DIES

Col. L. G. Fawkes, Distinguished Soldier and Artist, Passes Away

A distinguished military career was brought to a close yesterday morning when Col. L. G. Fawkes, eighty-two years of age, died at his home on Mayne Island.

Colonel Fawkes was an officer in the Imperial army during the South African war, and was one of the six officers who officiated as pallbearers at the funeral of the late Queen Victoria.

The Great War came at a time when Colonel Fawkes was too old to take an active part at the front, but this did not dampen his patriotic spirit. He secured a post in the army and did valuable work as an officer on the staff of the School of Instruction.

ARDENT CHURCH WORKER
Coming here from England ten years ago, Colonel Fawkes took an active part in community work on Mayne Island and was an ardent church worker.

As an artist he gained considerable attention at the Vancouver, Victoria, Duncan and New Westminster exhibitions with his watercolor studies.

Surviving him are his widow, Lady Constance Fawkes, and two brothers, Rev. R. Fawkes, of Poole, Dorset, and Judge A. Fawkes, of Windsor.

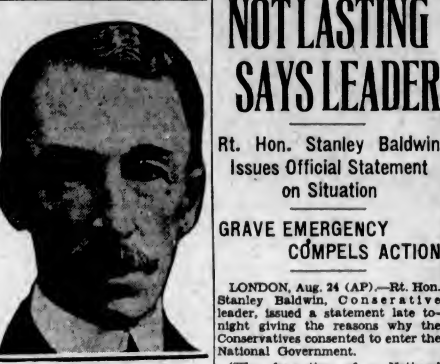

The funeral will take place at 2:30 p.m. Wednesday, on Mayne Island.

Mellon Hurt by Flashlight Bulb
NEW YORK, Aug. 24 (AP).—Secretary of the Treasury Andrew W. Mellon was cut on the hand by a flying glass today as photographers were taking pictures of him when he arrived from Europe.

Cameras boarded the liner on which Secretary Mellon was returning from a tour of inspection abroad, at quarantine, and he posed for photographs. One of the flashlight bulbs exploded and fragments of the glass slashed Mellon's hand. He was given quick treatment and, making light of the injury, left for the cutter Raritan, which had been sent down the Bay to meet him. The cutter proceeded to New York ahead of the liner.

It was found that glass had cut the skin for about an inch and a half.

MAKES LONG AIR JOURNEY

Minister of National Defence Completes Tour of Far Northern Territories

Completing a 4,000-mile journey, mostly by air, which took him from Ottawa across Northern Canada to Akavik, inside the Arctic Circle and across the Yukon Territory to North British Columbia and to Victoria, Colonel the Hon. D. M. Sutherland, Federal Minister of National Defence, arrived in the city Saturday afternoon on tour of inspection. The trip, the first to be covered by a Canadian Cabinet minister by air, occupied nearly two weeks. It was, he said, for the purpose of becoming familiar with the outlying sections of the Dominion.

Through Northern Ontario into the northern parts of the Prairies, the minister proceeded to the mouth of the Mackenzie River. His route then took him down the Peace River and into British Columbia, following the main waterways until Prince Rupert was reached on Friday. The final jump of the air trip was from Prince Rupert to Victoria.

Mr. Sutherland is very proud of the achievements of the trip and of the completion of it is understood that Parliament be dissolved as soon as circumstances permit and that each of the parties will be free to place its own policy before the voters for approval.

"By this means no party will be called upon to accept an arbitrary principle in which it believes. But the gravity of the crisis is such that it is the bounden duty of every one of us to place our own policy before the country to put aside party differences for the time being and co-operate in the national interests."

Typphoon May Make Additional Horror For Central China

Rising Wind Adds to Fears of Residents in Stricken Area—Soldiers Quell Hunger-Crazed Refugees With Machine Guns

HANKOW, Aug. 24 (AP).—Forebodings of even greater disaster today added to the misery of Central China's stricken hordes as this reservoir of death, disease and hunger was whipped by a strong wind—the feared forerunner of a typhoon.

It is the season for typhoons, and apprehensive residents feel a storm would complete the doom of the three cities, Hankow, Wuchang and Hankou, by blowing such volumes of water against them that undermined foundations would be certain to collapse.

More than 400,000 refugees are clinging to a precarious existence on the island crests of two hills behind Wuchang.

Reports to the Kuomintang News Agency stated more than 1,000 people were housed in the barracks at Wuchang were drowned as a result of a fresh break in the dyke holding back the Yangtze River.

USE MACHINE GUNS
In the native section of this city, hunger-crazed refugees who were quartered in a large warehouse, attacked a detail of soldiers who had been sent to remove a quantity of grain stored there. The soldiers summoned reinforcements and the crowd was quelled by the use of machine guns. Several of the refugees were wounded.

Reports to the Kuomintang News Agency stated more than 1,000 people were housed in the barracks at Wuchang were drowned as a result of a fresh break in the dyke holding back the Yangtze River.

THOUSANDS OF CORPSES
Thousands of corpses daily float down the river into an immense lake which is forming between Hankow and Nanking.

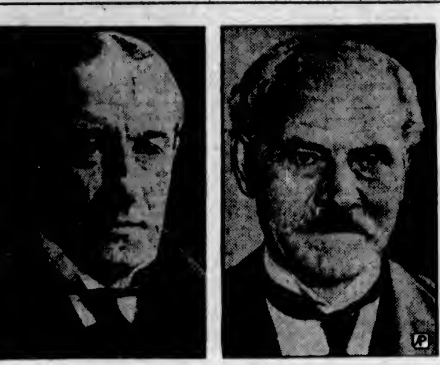

In portions of this city the stench is almost unbearable. Hordes of mosquitoes attack the unclad refugees, spreading malaria and other diseases now rampant.

Fifty Chinese and foreigners have formed a branch of the National Flood Commission, headed by Bishop Logan H. Root, of the Episcopalian Mission. An official estimate of the cost of food and shelter alone to alleviate the most extreme suffering will require $1,500,000, exclusive of the cost of medicines, during the next two months.

The tea crop of Central China has been ruined, and with less than 1 per cent of the foreign property in Hankow insured against floods, the property loss will be heavy.

Municipalities to Undertake Work in Unemployment Plan

Government Expects Organized Sections to Assist in General Scheme by Local Improvement—Schedule of Subsistence Allowance

THE Provincial Government has outlined its policy concerning unemployment relief to municipalities in a circular which was sent out yesterday to all municipalities in the province, by Hon. R. W. Bruhn, Minister of Public Works.

The circular informs the municipalities that the Government expects them to undertake public works for the relief of unemployed residents with dependents on the understanding that the Provincial and Dominion Governments, jointly, take care of all single unemployed men and women who entered the municipality subsequent to May 1, 1931.

WILL GIVE AID
The Minister of Public Works states in the circular that "the Provincial and Federal Governments are jointly prepared to consider the possibility of giving assistance to municipalities, which undertake works of a local improvement character for the purposes of providing employment to unemployed men with dependents, when these men and their dependents are bona fide municipal residents who have resided continuously in the municipality since May 1, 1931. This is on the understanding that the Government will, jointly, undertake the relief or employment of all single unemployed men without dependents who are residents of the municipality, and also all unemployed men who entered the municipality subsequent to May 1, 1931."

The Minister requests the municipalities to make an early decision on what works they intend to undertake. Any aid that may be given by the Government should be held responsible.

Chinese Demand Formal Apology

WORK DESIGNED TO AID RELIEF

Transcanada Route Chosen to Give Employment Where Most Needed

When the Provincial Government designated the route of the Transcanada Highway through British Columbia, it was not unmindful of the fact that objections would be raised from sections of Southern Interior. Those objections began to materialize yesterday with the receipt of a number of official protests from communities which are not directly on the proposed route.

The Government is now preparing a statement to meet the objections, which will be ready in the course of a day or so and probably will go forward to a meeting of the Associated Boards of Trade to be held at Nelson tomorrow. The tone of the protests the Government are not couched in critical terms, but seek an explanation of the reasons for adopting the middle route.

CENTRALIZE WORK
The Government holds that the designation of the central route, in preference to the most northerly or southerly line, was partially to centralize the construction in localities where unemployment could be relieved without going to the expense of erecting and maintaining costly camps in which to house and feed the men. Another reason is that the Federal Government is to bear a portion, if not all, of the cost of the construction of the roadway through the province, and it had already spent a considerable amount of money from Golden, north along

EMERGENCY MEASURES
The Government further intimates that because the route has been chosen as the Transcanada Highway, it does not mean that the work of transprovincial highways ends there. It is the intention to provide highways to the north and south in due course to give tourists alternate routes of travel. The Hope-Princeton section is included in the Government's announced programme, and it is pointed out that this work would not have been undertaken probably for several years under ordinary circumstances.

The Provincial and Federal Governments will in respect of employment of registered unemployed holding a certificate of registration "and will not be available for the purpose of rental, or purchase of equipment, tools, materials or things of a similar nature, nor for overhead charges of any kind."

Appended to the circular is the schedule of subsistence allowances to be paid by municipalities in respect of Government-aided relief works. The schedule calls for a six-day week and eight-hour day and an allowance of $2 per day for laborers, axmen, flunkies, bridge laborers, blacksmiths, helpers and shovel helpers. A teamster will receive $2.20 a day. The following will receive an allowance of $2.50 a day: Fellers, buckers, rock drillers, compressmen, graders, menders, truck drivers (light). Two dollars and seventy-five cents will be paid to graders (power), truck drivers (heavy), tractor drivers, gas donkey operators and powdermen.

The maximum subsistence payable to any specially employed man is not to exceed $2.75 per day. In addition to the above a subsistence allowance of 80¢ per day will be payable direct to the dependent family of each worker.

SPECIAL EMPLOYMENT
Under the following schedule no subsistence is to be paid to dependents: Construction men or bridge foremen, $3 per day; straw-boss, bridgemen, $3.50 per day; carpenter or bridge carpenter with tools, $4 per day; blacksmith, $4 per day, and shovel operator, $5 to $8 per day.

The form submitted to the municipalities calls for the number of registered men with dependents, the number without dependents and the number of transients, the nature and extent of the proposed works, number of men to be employed, number of man-days' employment and the estimated cost of employment, material and overhead.

ASK EARLY DETAILS
No announcement has been forthcoming as to the percentage the Provincial and Dominion Governments will contribute towards local improvement work to be done by the municipalities. The minister is anxious to have all details of proposed works in hand as rapidly as possible so that as little delay as possible will be occasioned in providing the men in municipalities with employment.

The proposals outlined by the Government do not differ greatly from those of a year ago with the exception that the Governments undertake to relieve the municipalities of single men and transients, who will be given employment in road construction undertakings. These undertakings, it is understood, will be able to take care of all single men and transients.

In implementing the policy already revealed to them—for stabilizing the country's economic position.

ECONOMY DEMAND
The present crisis developed with the report by the Government economy committee on the urgent necessity of balancing the budget in the face of a threatened deficit of $600,000,000. For two weeks the cabinet has been in emergency session debating measures which would wipe off that deficit, but opposition to measures which it evolved culminated in its resignation.

The Trades Union Congress, backing the Government, has been successful in its demand that the Government should not resort to a policy of "cutting the fat off the pig."

ENTRIES HEAVY AT EXHIBITION

Secretary W. H. Mearns
Says Exhibits 40 Per Cent
Greater Than Last Year

Exhibits at the Fall fair of the British Columbia Agricultural Association, which opens at the Willows on August 31 and continues to September 5, are 40 per cent greater than last year, it was reported yesterday by W. H. Mearns, secretary. Mr. Mearns estimates that upwards of 14,000 more entries have been received for the 1931 fair than for the exhibition of 1930.

It was also announced that the Prince of Wales would be one of the entrants at the fair, in the stock breeders' class. A letter from W. L. Carlyle, manager of E.P.

Ranch at High River, was received yesterday by Mr. Mearns, containing a list of short-horn entries. This is the second time that the E.P. Ranch has been represented at the Provincial Exhibition. It is estimated that with the Prince's entries the stock in the grand parade will be valued at close to $1,000,000.

EXPECT LARGE CROWDS
It has been the ambition of the officers of the association to make this not only an agricultural fair of importance, but a citizens' fair, said Mr. Mearns, and he claimed the big range of classes had achieved this purpose. At the same time, he expressed appreciation of the co-operation of citizens in helping the association obtain its objective.

The advance ticket sale is coming up to expectations and there is every indication that thousands will pass through the gates daily to build up the record aimed at this year. The sale is stimulated by the prizes of four automobiles valued at $8,000, $2,685, $1,620 and $1,000.

More attractions than ever before have been made possible by the two new buildings. Mr. Mearns called attention to the Rotary pavilion, being presented under the direction of L. C. Basanta, which is a feature attraction in itself. Many new classes have also been added to the horse show, and in the Manufacturers' Building, which always houses some of the most interesting exhibits for most of the visitors, there will be displays on a greater scale than ever before attempted.

WILL CELEBRATE COMING OF AGE

St. Barnabas' Boy Scout Troop
Plans Garden Fete Under Governor's Patronage

His Honor the Lieutenant-Governor will lend his patronage to the garden fete to be given by the Third Victoria (St. Barnabas) Boy Scout Troop and Wolf Cub Pack on Saturday afternoon, September 5, in the gardens of Mrs. J. Hebdon Gillespie, "Windyhaugh," and Mrs. J. H. Todd, "The Leasowes," Fairfield Road.

The occasion is the coming of age of the troop, which will on that date celebrate its twenty-first anniversary, and an interesting feature will be the reunion of the original members, who will form a guard of honor with the present members of the troop for His Honor on his arrival at 2:45 o'clock for the opening ceremony.

Displays of signaling, first aid and bridge building will be given by the troop under the direction of their scoutmaster, W. G. Lythgoe. The Cubs, who are trained by Cubmaster Mrs. A. H. C. Phillips, will give a demonstration of jungle dances. Various side shows will be in charge of the Scouts and Cubs and a fortune teller will give mystic advice in her tent.

An opportunity will be given to enjoy the artistic dancing of Miss Dorothy Bird, before her return to New York, where she has trained at the Playhouse School of Dancing, being a pupil of Miss Martha Graham. Miss Graham will be seen in solo dances. Afternoon tea will be served. The display of beautiful and rare flowers, now in full bloom, in both gardens, will be an exquisite setting for the event.

Mr. and Mrs. Johnson hope to be able to attend the opening recital on October 7 at the Shrine Auditorium.

Miss Helen Johnson will be the honorary patroness of the junior branch of the society. Some reference was made, during the discussion at yesterday's meeting, to the $50 which has been set aside as a nucleus of a scholarship fund to be added to from time to time, members attending by representation of the police department and the prosecuting staffs of the District Attorney's office. The conference was brought about by Friday's bandit chase which cost six lives, including those of two policemen and a four-year-old child.

ELECTION CHARGES

MONTREAL, Aug. 24 (CP).—Part of a group of 100 men arrested early today at campaign headquarters of Mayor Camille Houde, twenty-five men were arraigned in police court this afternoon on charges of having in their possession illegal documents, any knowledge of voters in the divisions of St. James' and St. Mary's. The men were all released on bail of $25 each, and will be tried on September 2.

City police arrested four men in St. Lawrence division this afternoon and charged them with being "telegraphers." In another part of the city, a special constable, Ernest Gaudet, thirty-eight, was attacked and beaten by a gang of men who drove away in two motorcycles.

EXILES BACK AT ST. KILDA
The exodus of the inhabitants of St. Kilda, who were removed from that Scottish island by the Government at their own request, has had an odd result that is stirring some criticism. Visitors to St. Kilda find, on landing at the island, a table laden with "curios" for sale. Articles of household furniture and other belongings which might be supposed to have a sentimental value, are being offered for sale. For some months nine former inhabitants have been making the sales. The accusation has been heard that some of St. Kilda's "relics" have been manufactured at Birmingham.

BUSINESS MEN PLAN TOUR

Chamber of Commerce
Party to Visit All Points on Vancouver Island

Members of the Victoria Chamber of Commerce will make a tour of Vancouver Island centres early in September. At a meeting of the directors, held yesterday, it was decided that on Thursday, September 10, as large a party as could be arranged would leave here on a three-day tour, visiting nearly every place that could be reached by automobile.

On the first day, stops will be made at Duncan, Chemainus, Ladysmith and then on to Nanaimo for lunch, with the Board of Trade members in that city joining the local body.

In the afternoon the party will go on to Parksville, where a stop will be made and then to Alberni and Port Alberni where the night will be spent. Visits will also be paid to Sproat Lake and Great Central Lake. At the dinner members of the Boards of Trade of Alberni and Port Alberni will join the group.

BACK TO CAMERON LAKE
On Friday an early start will be made with breakfast at Cameron Lake. The party will continue to Qualicum, with a stop there, and then to Courtenay, where lunch will be had with the Courtenay and Cumberland Boards of Trade members attending.

A drive to Campbell River, where dinner will be served, will be made in the afternoon, with a stop at Comox on the way. The Campbell River Board of Trade will dine with the local visitors in the evening, there will also be visits to Elk Falls and Forbes landing.

On Saturday, after breakfast at Campbell River, a start will be made on the homeward trip, with luncheon at Qualicum with the members of the Qualicum Board of Trade and Parksville District Development Association. In the afternoon the journey will be continued, reaching home early in the evening.

An alternative trip to be made in two days was submitted to the directors yesterday, but the members felt that it would be attempting too much to crowd the tour into that time.

The final details of the trip will be worked out later. It is anticipated that some of the other boards of trade on the Island may wish to have contingents join the local body in the tour.

Duncan Board of Trade will be invited to come to Victoria for the next meeting of the directors of the chamber, and it is expected that some of the Duncan members will participate in the tour of the Island.

"YRGO"
If August 25 is your birthday, the best hours for you on this date are from 10 a.m. to noon, from 4:45 p.m. to 6 p.m., and from 10:30 p.m. to 11:50 p.m. The danger hours are from 7 a.m. to 8:10 a.m. and from 2 p.m. to 3:40 p.m.

Astrological influences on August 25 will have a demoralizing effect upon business in general. An uncertainty of purpose and an inability to take a strong course will prevent advancement in most schemes. The odds are in favor of the young, and luck will come their way on the sports field.

The child born on this August 25 will be mentally precocious. Its brain must not be forced—stress should be placed on its physical exercise and manual occupations, so that its mental, spiritual and bodily development will each get its due. It will be proud, and if allowed, arrogant.

You have a sweet, gentle, flexible nature, and one easily influenced by prevailing conditions. A pronounced sense of justice colors all your actions in life. You are not temperamentally well balanced, as you are at times full of optimism and hope, and anon very melancholy. In your affairs, a certain amount of indecision is observed, and you often find yourself too late because of your hesitating habit, which has prevented you from acting at the most opportune time.

You have a strong will, up to a certain point, but it is not a stubborn one. In any of life's battles, you yield under persistent pressure, and desert your guns with a feeling of disgust.

A COALITION GOVERNMENT

The resignation of the Ramsay MacDonald Government was not unexpected, because of the impasse reached within its personnel on the measures that should be taken to solve the financial difficulties in which it had become involved. The differences that arose as to effect spread throughout all the ranks of the Labor Party. In fact, it was the attitude of the Trades Union Congress which precipitated the crisis. Mr. MacDonald realized that while his Cabinet was under the dictation of that body no steps could be taken to balance the budget successfully. There is no reason to doubt his own honesty of purpose in this direction, since he is to head the emergency Coalition Government. The stumbling block in the way of Labor's political course has been the adherence of its rank and file to the dole system, its resolution against any reform in administrative efforts to solve unemployment there should be no interference with the spread of social services.

In the new Coalition Government, which is merely called into existence to surmount a financial crisis, Mr. Ramsay MacDonald will be Prime Minister. That is an expected development, as he heads the largest party in Parliament. It is acquiesced in by Mr. Stanley Baldwin, who, in the emergency, is to serve under the Prime Minister. The Liberals are also participating, though Mr. Lloyd George may be too ill to take a Cabinet position. It will be a matter of satisfaction to the nation that most of those Labor Ministers who have been instrumental in precipitating the present impasse will not be members of the Coalition Government. The burden of blame must be shouldered by Mr. Snowden, who as Chancellor of the Exchequer, had the task of devising a balanced budget that have to be repaired. The Coalition Government, in contrast to its predecessor in office, must confine its attention to domestic problems. The Labor Administration had been concentrating on foreign affairs.

The best of all reactions of the new Government will be the effect it will have in restoring confidence in the public mind. No longer will there be an administration in office which is responsible to the persuasion either of a caucus or of an organization such as the Trades Union Congress, which was never brought into existence to exercise political control to the entire elected strength of the House of Commons. In this way, for emergency purposes, it will represent the nation and think nationally. In the decision reached to pool efforts so as to effect fiscal stabilization, there is an understanding that the arrangement is purely temporary. When the goal of balancing the budget has been reached, Parliament will be dissolved. That, unquestionably, is the compact made by the three political parties. In the meantime there will be a session of Parliament before which legislation will be laid, and on the basis of which there will be financial readjustment, probably involving the adoption of an installment of tariff reform, coupled with economies in a variety of directions.

The resignation of the Labor Government is an unquestioned admission of failure in its ability to meet the crisis that has ensued. That it was not given the opportunity to follow the decisions discussed by the sub-committee of the Cabinet is due to dissensions within its own ranks and the failure to devise such plans as would meet with favor from either the Conservatives or Liberals. It called both these political parties to its councils. It consulted with the heads of the Trades Union Congress. It fathomed public opinion throughout its own following. In the process it sensed the sentiment of the country as a whole and found antagonism to its life. Upon this occasion Mr. Ramsay MacDonald has taken the path of statesmanship, and admitted by the resignation of his Government, its inability to meet the issues that have arisen. It is a decision which will do more to restore public confidence in these times of economic stress than any which rests to the credit of the late Labor Government during its entire term of office. That term, indeed, has been one long series of happenings which, in their cumulative effect, have undermined the belief of the people in the power of Labor to govern in times like these. The present outlook is that it may be many long years before the Labor Party again wins any decisive measure of public sanction or its right to administer the affairs of Britain.

PREMIER TASCHEREAU SUSTAINED

The result of yesterday's election in Quebec shows that the Conservatives, in the politics of that province, have made no gains. The change in leadership from Mr. Arthur Sauve to Mr. Camille Houde has meant no change in the provincial strength of the party. Mr. Taschereau is sustained in power by approximately the same majority as he had in the last Legislature, and in effect the result is summed up by saying that he has given good government to Quebec, and his people are proportionately grateful. None of the new issues introduced during the campaign had any effect on popular feeling. They were, in effect, issues which hardly touched upon the fortunes of provincial politics.

There is one point in Premier Taschereau's victory which deserves pointed comment. Quebec, through its Premier, has taken a strong stand against the international development of the St. Lawrence Waterway "upon any terms which would involve the surrender of Canadian rights." There is not a question of doubt but that the people of Quebec are with him, and they illustrated their opinion at the polls yesterday. The Federal authorities will pay close attention to this aspect of the result in Quebec. Internationalism in the governance of the St. Lawrence Waterway has probably received a severe setback. It was Premier Taschereau who led the fight for recognition of provincial rights over the water powers in the St. Lawrence, and he was successful. On that action his prestige was enhanced, and, indeed, in that action he probably reinforced his claims to be returned to office. Apart from his policy about provincial rights, Mr. Taschereau has given Quebec an excellent administration. The right men in the right place have had more to do with Quebec's thirty-four years of Liberalism than any particular affection of the people of that province for that party. Even the strength and vigor of Mr. Houde and his undoubted campaigning ability have failed to dent the ranks who follow the Premier. The Beauharnois exposures have left the Provincial Liberal Government untouched in the public mind. That Government has even escaped any public censure at the polls because of the conditions affecting pulp and paper limits. Premier Taschereau continues in office, reinforced in authority and with unwavering popularity. He has every reason for justifiable pride in the verdict of the people given with such emphasis.

MR. JAMES HUNTER

The late Mr. James Hunter throughout his residence here was actively engaged in a variety of interests as business man, musician, sportsman and good fellow. He will be missed keenly by an unusually large circle of friends who he had attracted by his bonhomie. In the business in which he was engaged he was well informed and successful. To the musical life of the city he was an asset, and in this regard his interest never flagged. He was rarely happier than in promoting some artistic venture into which he invariably threw himself heart and soul as organizer, singer or actor. He was one of the most active members possessed by the Rotary Club which he joined on its inception here, which he assisted materially in its development and, indeed, was prominent in all its activities.

He was of the type that makes service clubs popular. The passing of Mr. Hunter creates a void in our community life. Not only had he an attractive personality and winning ways, but his earnestness in so many activities, coupled with the ability he displayed in promoting them, won him a place in the hearts of those associated with such ventures that cannot easily be filled. His death will be mourned by a very wide circle and the deep sympathy of all who knew him will go out to the son and daughter who survive.

The light of the star Arcturus, traveling at the rate of 186 miles per second, is expected to reach the earth on June 1, 1933. Chicago, ever anxious for publicity, has decided that this light will be used to open an exhibition in that city. It will be focussed on a photo-electric cell by the forty-inch telescope of the Yerkes Observatory at Williams Bay, Wisconsin. The current thus generated in the cell will be amplified and wired to the exhibition, opening the gates. If all goes according to programme, which is exceedingly doubtful, Chicago can substitute for a brief few seconds the starlight for the limelight in which it has basked so long.

Two records have been established under Britain's Labor Government. On March 9 last there were 2,691,737 unemployed in the country, the highest total ever recorded up to that time. Now that record has been eclipsed with a total of 2,713,350. Under Labor, indeed, the number of unemployed has increased from 1,154,129 in 1929 to 2,713,350 at the present time. That reads like a record of futility in legislation perhaps never equalled.

TRAVELER'S SONG

He who would travel far
Must travel light
And for his company
Take dear Delight.
Delight loves simple things,
Her needs are few;
She is as young and fair
As untroubled dew.

But if Delight should prove
A fickle friend,
Let him to sturdy Grief
A hearing lend;
He from her well-lined store
A cloak may borrow;
No cobler patches shoes
So well as Grief.

The man who knows these two—
Grief and Delight—
May view the varied world
And sleep at night.

Note and Comment

By R. B. D.

They have been awed. The flower of them. From an old Scotch song. Then steel away, give little warning. Choose this own time. May not good-night, but in some brighter time. Did me good-morning.

—Barbault.

Someone has said that the difference between a courageous man and a coward is often merely a matter of imagination. Soldiers of experience tell us that no man on the eve of battle is absolutely destitute of fear, but that the stolid, phlegmatic man is less subject to the disturbing emotion than the high-strung, sensitive man. Sir Walter Scott, in his story of "The Fair Maid of Perth," one of the most sanguinary of his tales, illustrates the difference between the man who can conquer fear and men who, according to outward appearances, know not the meaning of fear. One young Highland chieftain, the hope of his clan, when the battle between representatives of two tribes was joined, was seized with panic and turned tail and fled. The young fellow was not lacking in physical courage, but the spectre of the consequences of the barbaric strife overcame his fortitude, he was seized with a panic, and dared not face inevitable death.

We are all, or most of us are, like the young chief who brought discredit upon his clan. As long as death is remote we can go about our daily task with credit to our kind. The test of character is applied when we are brought face to face with the last enemy, when we know that death is at the door and we do not know the day nor the hour when the dread knock will be heard and we shall have to open and let the visitor in.

We had known James Hunter for many years. Almost everybody in Victoria had known him for a long time, many of them very intimately. He had a multitude of friends. Mr. Hunter was in the fullest sense of the term a splendid specimen of physical manhood, stalwart of body and strong of mind. He looked like an athlete. There did not seem to be a defective organ in his whole physical system.

Yet the secret which was hidden from all other eyes was well known to him. Some weeks ago he revealed that dread secret to us. When told in confidence that he might be called hence almost any hour or day, the revelation seemed incredible. We thought he was joking, for he had a keen sense of humor and delighted in song and story, with which he had entertained his friends upon many occasions, and his appearance at the time gave no indication that the end of his earthly career was at hand. We even asked him to banish such morbid notions and sing us one of the songs which were such a delight to his friends in the old days of not so very long ago. But while his voice appeared in conversation to be as vigorous and as vibrant as ever, when he told us that his own song had been sung, then we realized the seriousness of his case.

However, Jimmy's case was quite different from some other similar cases we had known in the course of our pilgrimage. There are very few beings of either the higher or the lower order in this world who can look death in the face without flinching. We have seen looks of despair in the eyes of both human beings and dumb animals when they knew the knock they heard upon the door was made by the hand of death. There was no such shadow in the eyes of Jimmy Hunter the last time we met and talked with him. He was as cheerful as of old. He had a new story to tell, and he told it as cheerfully as if he had countless numbers of stories treasured in his memory to tell in the years to come. He was a Scot, but he was not like the Scot of the Scottish story. When faced with the inevitable enemy, he did not turn his back and flee and bring discredit upon his clan and kind. Figuratively he cocked his bonnet upon his shapely head and met the enemy gallantly and courageously. He was, like one of the best of the imaginary characters of his great townsman, Robert Louis Stevenson, "a bonnie fecther" and a fine figure of a man all through life and to the end. All honor to his memory, will be the sentiment of his many friends and admirers in British Columbia who knew him well and enjoyed his company.

Death did not select a shining mark when it laid its cold hand upon the MacDonald Government of Great Britain. There may be a few so poor as to do the discredited Socialist administration reverence in its passage into oblivion, but the general sentiment will be that it was "unwept, unhonored and unused." It tried to be all things to all nations and to all men and it has left a terrible mess for another kind of Government to mop up and clear away. But there is this to be said for the leader of the Government: he is conscious of the evil he has done, and seems to be willing to assume a portion of the responsibility for the reforms which must be effected. If the Liberal party had been as zealous in the interests of the country as it has been in its opposition to the Conservative party, there would have been neither a political nor a financial crisis in the affairs of Britain.

UNEMPLOYMENT RELIEF

Sir,—I regret to see that my views have been misapprehended by your correspondent, Mr. Hastings, owing, no doubt, to my imperfections of expression. I am sure we all wish to be helpful, but we cannot be so if we misunderstand each other, and I, therefore, am venturing briefly to reiterate what I said before.

I said that before embarking on elaborate schemes, involving large expenditures, it was wise for nations, as well as individuals, to reckon up their resources. I said that the expenditures of the various governments had mounted to between five-sevenths and six-sevenths of the total national income assessed to taxation. I said that the expenditures of the present financial year threatened to exceed that income, that the expenditures of our Province had, in the last five years, increased three-fold, that in the last three years our Provincial expenditure had increased by forty per cent, and our public debt had increased three-fold, or five-fold, or ten-fold, or twenty-fold, or thirty-fold, or forty-fold, or fifty-fold, or sixty-fold, or seventy-fold, or eighty-fold, or ninety-fold, or one hundred-fold, or one hundred and one-fold, or one hundred and two-fold, or one hundred and three-fold, or one hundred Please buy a pencil, Miss

"OH BOTHER, there's that tiresome old woman again. Just because I sympathized with her once—"

Then like an arrow came a strange thought.

The office girl's gaze went past the shabby dress, the hopeless coat, and rested on the seamed face with the wistful eyes from which fear looked out—the fear that dwells with the aged poor.

The girl knew her story. Once young of course, and thoughtless, happy with a husband and a home. Then came hard times. Luckless speculations swept away what little they had. The husband died at the wrong time, and left her unprovided for. The widow drifted here and there... finally to this... selling pencils to people who didn't want them.

So, to the office girl came these drumming questions that would not down—"could this happen to me? Could it? Old, helpless forlorn... no money... unwanted. What can I do to make sure I will never come to this?"

SAVINGS PROVE INDEX OF HOPE

Dr. D. F. Pegrum Urges Cancellation of International Debts at Meeting

At their luncheon yesterday, in the grillroom of the Empress Hotel, members of the Gyro Club listened to a lecture by Dr. D. F. Pegrum, professor of economics at the University of California, on "Conditions Affecting the Present Business Depression." Introduced by the chairman, W. C. Hudson, the lecturer declared that the Great War had resulted in a change from a national to an international view of the field of economics, and this international situation called for international solutions.

The speaker emphasized that the most hopeful sign of an end to the present depression was to be found in the increased savings of Canadians as reflected by banking institutions, and such personal economy was an index of prosperity in the immediate future.

War had developed communication between nations, but national tariff walls hampered international trading conditions. The present tariff of the United States acted as a hindrance to the exchange of commodities with Europe, which could hardly pay debts unless more freedom was accorded European and other nations to enter United States markets. He stated that no country could afford to be self-sufficient and independent of the rest of the world, and this fact was becoming increasingly evident to the people of the United States.

TRADE BALANCES
The trade balance of the world had been completely upset as a result of the Great War, the bulk of the world's gold supply being now in the United States and France. This situation, Dr. Pegrum stated, had led, in 1921, to the beginning of a feverish activity in manufacturing industries, developed largely through war years, as it had also brought about a situation in agriculture wherein the farmers' production exceeded the world's demands. The continued flood of European gold brought into play the element of speculation in stocks and shares, and the extension of the credit system in buying by instalments. This inflation of credit carried to extremes ultimately paved the way for the slump of 1929; the interior production by this time reaching such a stage that world markets became saturated.

During this same period, these markets were further outlived by a large expansion of the system of national tariffs in Europe and other countries, while the United States tariff, in answer to these exterior tariffs, had largely failed in its object. The actual situation called for

ALDERMAN SEEKS MAYOR'S OFFICE

R. T. Williams Announces Candidature—Believes Tax Rate Can Be Reduced From Present Figure

Alderman R. T. Williams yesterday announced his candidature for mayor of Victoria.

Election for the 1932 term does not take place until December, while nominations close the latter part of November. If others follow Alderman Williams' example, an early election campaign can be expected.

Alderman Williams will resign from the council in order to run for mayor. He has another year to serve as alderman, so his retirement will add one more position to be filled.

Five aldermen for two-year terms will have to be elected and a sixth will be elected to complete Alderman Williams' term.

REDUCE MILL RATE
In announcing his candidature, Alderman Williams said he thought that by proper management the city should be able to reduce the mill rate for tax purposes down to thirty-eight or even thirty-five mills.

One of his schemes for curtailing expenses is a consolidation of the city's debt into one large debt at a lower rate of interest.

Alderman Williams would not commit himself on the question of a city manager in dealing with better management of city affairs, but did state that he thought the time would come when a city manager would be at the head of civic affairs.

GREET GREAT DOLLAR SHIP

California Officials Welcome New Liner at Port of San Francisco

SAN FRANCISCO, Aug. 24 (AP).—The $8,000,000 liner President Hoover, queen of American-built ships, steamed through the Golden Gate today on her maiden voyage.

The 653-foot floating palace swung neatly in at Pier 42 after a two-hour parade of the waterfront. Airplanes circled the ship, dropping wreaths, and the bellying blasts of all the factory and steamship whistles about the Ambarcadero welcomed the new dollar liner in a deafening roar, the greatest since Lindbergh's return from Paris.

At the pier, a group of state and city notables gave the ship, President Hoover, an official welcome. Governor James Rolph, United States Senator Samuel Hays, Mayor Rolph, and others extended their compliments to the aged Captain Robert Dollar, builder of the liner.

Sprint Tonight at Super-Walkathon

Tonight at the Canada Stadium, where four couples are treading the contest floor after 1,350 hours of continuous motion, another grueling three-hour dance elimination sprint will be held, commencing at 8 o'clock. These couples are all determined to win this contest, and they have lots of grit and courage to carry on in face of terrific strain.

Tonight's dance sprint, which calls for three hours' continuous dancing, with three falls, or three thirty-second stops, calling for a disqualification, should again prove to be very exciting.

Cyclist Improves—John Smith, sixteen, of 560 John Street, is in the Royal Jubilee Hospital suffering from serious injuries to his left side and arm. He was taken to the hospital Saturday night after being dragged 100 feet by a car driven by John S. McKillop, of Saanich. Attendants report the boy's condition as improved.

West Coast Road—The directors of the Chamber of Commerce will give their endorsement to a move by the Bamfield Board requesting the active continuation of the West Coast Road from Victoria towards that point. A letter from Bamfield asked for the assistance of the local body. The directors at the meeting yesterday decided to give every aid.

Plans Announced—A circular letter informing the councillors of the Federal and Provincial Government plans for unemployment relief, was read at the meeting of the Esquimalt Council last night. It was decided that copies would be made for each of the members, and that they would give it their consideration.

Tenders Called—The Saanich School Board yesterday invited tenders for the construction of the third high school in the municipality. Closing date for acceptance of bids is September 2. Separate tenders will be accepted for plumbing and heating. The building will cost approximately $48,000 and will be the largest of the three Saanich high schools.

Criticism Council—A letter from the Esquimalt Board of Trade criticizing the Esquimalt Council regarding the unemployment situation was read at a meeting of the Council last night. James Elrick asserted that if any members of the board had ideas for unemployment relief they would benefit the Council by attending its meetings and making known their projects.

Case Remanded—William Moxam, charged with driving to the common danger, was remanded until next week when his case came before Magistrate George Jay yesterday. Russell Stinson, taxi driver, who was injured in an automobile accident involving Mr. Moxam, is still in the hospital and is not in a condition to give evidence. Prosecutor Claude Harrison explained.

Injured Recover—George Williams and Ted Wheeler, both of Gordon Head, who were injured in an automobile accident on the Esquimalt Road late Saturday, were sufficiently recovered to be released from the Royal Jubilee Hospital on Sunday. Leslie Thorley, injured in the same accident, is still in the hospital, however, having suffered more serious injuries.

Sea Lion Visits Strait—A sea lion, an infrequent visitor in local waters, was seen on Sunday morning by Mr. and Mrs. J. H. Russell, 5 Almo Place, disporting with a salmon it had captured in the area between the breakwater and Macaulay Point. It held the gliding fish in its mouth, diving with its prey and coming to the surface again, its antics occasioning considerable interest to spectators.

City and District

Donation Granted—Payment of $10, which is annually granted by the municipality to the Good Roads League of British Columbia, was authorized at last night's meeting of the Esquimalt Council.

Want Pests Destroyed—A communication from the Department of Agriculture requesting that all rose pests, known as sweet briar, found in the municipality, be removed, was received and filed at a meeting of the Esquimalt Council last night.

Hearing Adjourned—Owen Newton, charged with stealing an amount less than $10 from Donald P. Cameron, was remanded until today when his case came up for hearing. The city police court yesterday.

Wants to Keep Open—The retail merchants group of the Chamber of Commerce will have a letter referred to it from the directors of the Provincial Department of Agriculture. The letter wishes to be placed on the list of places that may keep open on Wednesdays.

Petty Theft—Several cases of petty theft were reported to the police during the week-end. Included in the thefts was the stealing of ten gallons of gasoline from the pump outside the Community House at the Esquimalt car terminus yesterday morning.

Saanich Unemployed—At a meeting of the unemployed of Saanich held yesterday at the Hampton Road hall, it was learned that a branch of the National Unemployed Workers' Association had been formed in the municipality and had a membership of forty. Representatives of the Victoria branch attended the meeting. The speakers were A. Hetherington, E. E. Bell, Ronald Stewart, Mrs. A. Campbell and Hans Kroeger.

Supports Treaty—D. B. Plunkett, M.P., replying to a communication to him requesting his active interest in the matter of a trade treaty with New Zealand, wrote that he was in hearty support of the move. He communicated the wishes of the local chamber to the Prime Minister and to the Minister of Trade and Commerce. Mr. Plunkett stated that he would be happy to render any assistance possible in the furthering of the aims in view.

Board Has No Power—A letter from the municipal solicitor informing the Esquimalt Council that it had no power to terminate the Esquimalt Public Library was read at a meeting of the body last night. The matter was raised when the Council decided to ask the opinion of the solicitor on the subject, as the members deemed that termination of this service would assist in the rigid plans of economy being made by the municipality at this time. The communication was received and filed.

Will Not Attend—P. B. Fowler announced at the meeting of the directors of the Chamber of Commerce yesterday, that in view of the fact that the convention of the Canadian Clubs had been cancelled for this year, he would not be attending. As delegate, the Canadian Chamber of Commerce meeting, which will be held in Regina, the matter of representation from the local body was left over for the present. The hope was expressed that W. W. Duncan and J. W. Hudson might be able to attend as they were going East about that time.

Total Registrations—Provincial unemployment registrations reached a total of 29,998 up to the closing date, 2,994 provincial. Of the total number of registrations, 5,442 are registered as non-British, and 20,966 have expressed willingness to go on road construction works. It is predicted the number of unemployed registrations may go as high as 35,000, although there is a steady lessening in the number of daily registrants.

Voices Objections—The directors of the Chamber of Commerce had a communication, yesterday, placed before them from Franklin Snow, of New York, who objected that when he came to Victoria on the St. H. F. Alexander, the taxi drivers made the situation obnoxious by crying "car to beer garden." The writer said that he knew that Victoria was a beautiful place and was afraid that this would give a bad impression. He also had objections as to taxi rates charged in some cases. Copies of the letter will be sent to the City Council, the public utility bureau and the Taxi Drivers' Association.

IMPORTANCE OF PRAYER SHOWN

Bishop of London Delivers Farewell Sermons Before Capacity Congregations

A spiritual message on the importance of prayer in the Christian life and the Cathedral as a House of Prayer was delivered by the Rt. Hon. Rt. Rev. A. F. Winnington-Ingram, Bishop of London, in the two farewell sermons which he preached from the pulpit of Christ Church Cathedral on Sunday. Hundreds of people were turned away from the Cathedral as the Bishop of London, in the two farewell sermons which he preached from the pulpit of Christ Church Cathedral on Sunday. Hundreds of people were turned away from the Cathedral as the Bishop of London, in the two farewell sermons which he preached from the pulpit of Christ Church Cathedral on Sunday.

Accompanied by Bishop Schofield, Bishop Remington (of Oreg.), Very Rev. Dean Quinlan, Mr. Blythe, J. E. Semmes, Ven. Archdeacon Laycock and Deaconess Robins, the Bishop of London left for Nanaimo early yesterday morning to lay the foundation stone of St. Paul's Church, saying good-bye to Victoria after a pleasant four days' stay.

His text on Sunday morning was from Psalm lxx, 2: "O Thou That Hearest Prayer, to Thee Shall All Flesh Come."

"My first word to you gathered here is to congratulate you all on the splendid achievement of the last five years. I really can hardly believe that when I think of the hot Summer's day, five years ago, when I stood on the empty site above which there now stands this beautiful house of prayer and which, when completed, will be one of the most beautiful examples of Anglican ecclesiastical architecture. Without three such men as your Bishop, your Dean and your Archdeacon, backed up by a splendid body of laity, such a thing could never have been accomplished," said the preacher in the preface to his sermon.

AN ANSWER
The Cathedral here was a concrete answer to the message sent out by the Cathedral at Liverpool, thousands of miles away.

The preacher related the evidence of science to the evidence of religion. All great men seemed agreed that science only helped man to read God's thoughts. Nearly all the great scientific discoveries had been made by religious men, and Eddington, Sir John Oliver and men of such standing testified that none of the scientific phenomena would have any meaning or significance unless there were one great God above.

REASONS FOR BELIEF
Reasons for belief in prayer were advanced. A first reason was the fact of the all-prevalence of the prayer instinct among mankind. Then nearly all men admitted that prayer did good. In this connection the Bishop of London said he would not argue the truth of the fact of Christ. This must be accepted, or nothing. At the same time, he said, as a youth he had eventually come to the conclusion that the only possible answer that could be given to those who disputed whether Christ were merely a man was "Thou art the King of Glory, the everlasting Father." The third reason for belief in prayer was that it was an act of faith, a venture of faith.

The preacher then reviewed the five secrets of prayer: Prayer must be personal, believing in the love of God. It must be in the name of Jesus Christ, which meant far more than merely saying "for Jesus' sake." And prayer must be the spirit and prayer must be large-hearted, thinking in the family or group sense rather than in the small and egotistical sense. First things must be put first.

LONDON'S NEEDS
"I would rather have London free from penury, free from overcrowding, free from vice at night, than find some cure to personal things," said the preacher in this connection.

Some argued that action was more important than prayer. One man in London had said, for instance, that it would surely be of much greater help, in securing the forty-five churches which London needs, if someone came forward with a generous gift of money than for someone to sit down and pray for it. But it was to the praying people that the Bishop looked for the wherewithal to build the forty-five churches.

In the evening Bishop Winnington-Ingram indicated that thanksgiving should go hand in hand with prayer, maintaining that the majority of people had much more to be thankful for than grumble about. Even the beasts of the jungle, preyed upon by their fellows, had happy lives, according to naturalists. Life was a great adventure, and without the sense of adventure it would not be worth living. The happiness of life exceeded its unhappiness.

Flies' Wings Used For Instruments
The first meeting of the Astronomical Society this year is to be held on Thursday at Victoria College and will be addressed by R. M. Petrie, M.A., who is spending the Summer working at the Dominion Astrophysical Observatory.

Mr. Petrie has spent the last three months studying at the University of Michigan, where he has had a distinguished scholastic record. The subject of the meeting is to be "Astronomical Instruments," and the lecturer will explain the principle of the powerful but intricate apparatus used by astronomers in studying the stars. Instruments described by Mr. Petrie will include the powerful reflecting and refracting telescopes, of which the Victoria reflector is one of the finest, as well as other auxiliary apparatus, such as the spectroscopic, interferometer and photometer.

During the past few years many very intricate and delicate devices have been perfected for the purpose of measuring the light and heat of the stars. These include a radiometer with waves made from flies' wings, the photo-electric cell, the bolometer and the thermocouple. The principles involved in the use of these devices will be explained by the speaker, who will illustrate his remarks by numerous lantern slides.

MURDER AND SUICIDE IS JURY'S VERDICT
PORT ALBERT, Aug. 24.—A verdict of murder and suicide against Paddy O'Toole, who, with Mrs. Grace Tumin, of Vancouver, was found dead in O'Toole's burning home here on Saturday, was brought this evening by a coroner's jury.

The jury found that O'Toole, after murdering the woman by cutting her throat, had then taken his own life by the same means. Jealousy is believed to have been the motive.

RANKIN-ADAMS
The home of Mr. and Mrs. J. T. Adams, of 221 Esplanade Road, was the scene of a quiet but pretty wedding on Saturday afternoon, when their second daughter, Violet, was united in marriage by the Rev. A. O. Thomson to Mr. Robert Rankin, of Seattle. The bride, who was given in marriage by her father, looked charming in a white georgette dress with a corsage of orange blossoms. The bride was attended by Mrs. George Hall as matron of honor, who was attired in a blue silk ensemble. Mr. F. W. Adams, brother of the bride, was best man. After a short honeymoon the bride and groom will leave for Seattle, where they will take up residence. For traveling the bride will wear a maroon and white ensemble with hat to match.

POUDRE STYLE IS RETURNING

Cosmetologist Reports Trend in Hair Fashions Convention Features

Close on the heels of the radical changes of the last twelve months in dress fashions, comes the rumor that with the return to the ultra-feminine styles, powdered hair may become the vogue in the very near future.

"Powdered hair is coming back," quite definitely states W. J. Kucinski, secretary-treasurer of the United Association of Registered Cosmetologists, Ltd., California, who, with his wife and Mr. and Mrs. E. H. Kranz, are here from Pasadena for a few days in the course of a motor trip prior to the opening of the third annual state convention of this hairdressers' organization, which is to take place at Pasadena, October 18, 19 and 20.

Famous European hairdressers, he says, as well as representatives from the Hollywood motion picture colony, will take part in the programme and will assist in entertaining the great gathering of delegates who will attend from all over the continent. Among the Victoria members of the profession who have attended these conventions in the past is Mrs. Ada Chaston, on whom Mr. Kucinski called while here.

FOR FORMAL OCCASIONS
Mr. Kucinski modified his forecast about the revival of the fashion of powdered hair by saying its vogue would be limited to formal affairs, with short, wavy styles, which are generally conceded to be the headquarters for fashions in the dressing of the hair, the movie actresses and their hairdressers making a specialty of new styles and establishing the vogue for this or that. Curiously enough, although logically enough, too, most of the Hollywood fashions are created by French or German artists, among the best-known men being T. Aerts, now of Los Angeles, a French creator of styles in hair; Georges Maquin, another Frenchman; M. Caesar, special marcelling artist; and Mr. Kranz, who is the originator of "contouring" in hair. Mr. Kranz is here with Mr. Kucinski.

"Five foreign artists from Paris are to exhibit the powdered hair fashions at the convention, they report.

PLAIN-GIRL CONTEST
Another interesting and entertaining part of the programme will be a plain-girl contest. The number of entrants is limited to twenty of the plainest girls who can be found, five judges having been appointed to select from the applicants. Skilled cosmetologist artists will take these subjects in hand, and in full view of the audience will transform them into personable and attractive girls, "demonstrating that it is not only possible but easy to change both appearance and personality, and present her as a blooming flower," said Mr. Kucinski, when referring to this unique feature of the programme. The transformation will not end with the treatment of the hair and skin, but will involve passing through the hands of a skilled cosmetician, who will select a style suited to the personality of the subject.

The three-day programme is to include other exceptional educational features, and delegates are promised one of the most elaborate entertainments of the kind ever presented to the hair-dressing profession.

Mr. and Mrs. Kucinski and Mr. and Mrs. E. H. Kranz will leave for the South today, after extending personal invitations to many leading representatives of the hair-dressing profession between Pasadena and Victoria.

REPORTS TIMBER IS BEING WANTONLY CUT

The Victoria and Island Publicity Bureau has had brought to its attention a report that there is considerable wanton destruction of timber taking place in connection with new road construction. This matter came before the executive at a meeting yesterday on a statement of C. P. Hill, who had recently traveled to Campbell River and reported that there seemed to be destruction of more timber than was necessary.

The members of the Chamber of Commerce who make the tour of the island early in September will be requested to pay attention to this on their travels beyond Comox with the idea of noting whether something could be done to lessen the alleged waste.

Women's Institutes of Vancouver Island

VICTORIA

The regular meeting of the Victoria Women's Institute was held at the headquarters, 303 Union Building, Mrs. White, president, presiding. Reports of standing committees showed all committees active. Permission has been granted by the City Council to hold the annual tag-day in aid of the Solarium in October and Mrs. Peden has again kindly consented to act as convener. Mrs. Simmonds, handicraft convener, stated that a selection of handicrafts made by thirty-eight regular contributors and usually on sale at the public market, will be on view at her stall at the Provincial Exhibition to be held at Willows next week. A keen interest is being taken in the exhibition this year. It was decided to compete in the floral section; this entry will be arranged by Mesdames Sadler, Wilkinson, Ramsey and Miss Savory; also in the needlework and institute handicraft sections, convener being Mrs. Sadler and Mrs. Palmer. An entry has also been placed in the section for quilts, hand-sewn and filled with wool purchased from the B.C. Woolen Mills at Victoria. Mrs. Arnold, agriculture convener hopes to have her poultry club and egg-testing class for boys and girls present when the poultry judging is in progress. The luncheon in the main building is one of the many efforts made to raise funds to carry on the work of the institute and the conveners, Mesdames Laird and Urquhart, hope for assistance from the members and the patronage of the public. Correspondence contained a letter from the Beautification of Victoria Association asking for suitable suggestions. Five suggestions were submitted and these will be forwarded to the association. A new ways and means committee, headed by Mrs. Sadler, was appointed and three new members, Mrs. Ramsey, Miss Harris and Mrs. McDonald were accepted.

an additional $200. Five hundred dollars and the promise of a similar amount at a later date was another resident's contribution, the reeve said.

It is probable that the Saanich Council will turn over to the organization the remaining portion of its charity fund, amounting to $800.

With the contributions already received, Reeve Crouch expects that $10,000 can be raised, which amount, he believes, will meet the demands upon the new organization from needy families.

WED MORE THAN HALF A CENTURY

Mr. and Mrs. L. J. N. Duval, Saanich Pioneers, Have Seen Many Changes Since Early Days

Mr. and Mrs. Louis J. N. Duval, pioneer residents of Royal Oak, received congratulations from a wide circle of friends upon the fifty-sixth anniversary of their wedding on August 14, and further felicitations were extended Mr. Duval on the attainment, on August 16, of his eighty-second birthday. Mr. and Mrs. Duval are among the best-known of Saanich residents, and both are wonderfully energetic and youthful in their outlook upon life.

Mr. Duval was born near Three Rivers, Quebec, on August 16, 1849, and came West in 1872. From Victoria Mr. Duval went prospecting in the Cassiar and Peace River country, his partner being the first to discover the great mining possibilities of that area. After a Winter in the North, he returned to Victoria, and on August 14, 1875, was married to Miss Jane Cheeseman at the Royal Oak residence of her parents, the late Mr. and Mrs. Richard Cheeseman. They took up their residence at the Royal Oak Hotel, of which Mr. Duval was proprietor. Mr. Duval, who was a contractor, building roads in Cowichan, Quamichan, the Gorge, Sooke and Otter Point, took down the old Royal Oak Hotel and replaced it with the structure at the intersection of the East and West Saanich Roads, which was torn down a few months ago.

CAME ROUND HORN

Mrs. Duval's father first came to Victoria alone, returning later for his bride. They were among the passengers on the Norman Morrison, and their first child was born on board ship when rounding the Horn. Shortly after their arrival in the fort in 1853, Mr. Cheeseman left the service of Hudson's Bay Co. and took up farming in what was then called Lake District and which he named Royal Oak, after his old home in England. Here, in a log cabin, in the heart of the forest, their children, including Mrs. Duval, were born.

Mr. Cheeseman was killed when his team bolted over the newly-made road on his first trip with them into Victoria. Mrs. Cheeseman was left with four small girls to care for.

GOLDEN WEDDING

Mr. and Mrs. Duval celebrated their golden wedding in 1925, when over 200 residents of the district honored the popular couple.

They have had four children, all living: Louis, of Port Angeles; William, of Victoria; Frederick, of Saanich, and Mrs. W. P. Rankin, of Logan Avenue, Victoria, and nine grandchildren.

THE PIT WE ALL FALL INTO

WE STAND on the brink of it and do not realize it is there.

We fall into it but do not know that we have fallen.

Or, if we do know, we ponder dumbly as to the cause. The pit is social ostracism.

And the thing that pushes us in is an insidious thing. In the medical world they call it halitosis. In blunt terms, it is bad breath. Under any name, it is an unpardonable offense in social and business life.

The insidious thing about halitosis is that you yourself never know when you have it—and your best friend won't tell you. It is the last thing we suspect ourselves of having—but it ought to be the first.

Before social engagements gargle with LISTERINE

Produced in Canada

No One is Immune

For, every day in normal mouths, conditions capable of causing halitosis may do arise.

Its commoner causes are fermenting food particles skipped by the tooth brush, decaying teeth, artificial teeth, colds, catarrh, slight infections of nose, mouth or throat, pyorrhea, stomach derangements caused by excesses of eating and—should we say it?—of drinking.

The one way to put yourself on the polite and acceptable side is to rinse the mouth with undiluted Listerine. Every night and morning. And between times before meeting others. It leaves the mouth clean, sweet, and healthy.

Strikes at Cause of Odors

Because of its germicidal power,

Listerine first strikes at fermentation and infection, the cause of odors; then destroys the odors themselves. It is one of the swiftest deodorants known. Even difficult odors, like those of onion and fish, yield to it quickly.

There is no point in risking social disfavor when Listerine will put you so promptly on the right side. Keep a bottle handy in home and office. Carry one when you travel. Lambert Pharmaceutical Company, Toronto, Ontario.

"Though safe to use in any body cavity, full strength Listerine kills even the resistant Staphylococcus Aureus (pus) and Bacillus Typhosus (typhoid) germs in counts ranging to 200,000,000 in 15 seconds. (Fastest time science has accurately recorded.)"

STAR RETURNS IN IMPORTANT ROLE

Nancy O'Neill Portrays "La Mere" in "Their Mad Moment," Showing at Capitol

Nancy O'Neill's return to Fox Studio to enact the important role of "La Mere" in "Their Mad Moment," Fox romantic drama of Basque love, featuring Warner Baxter and Dorothy Mackall, which is now being shown at the Capitol Theatre, marks her second description of the stage for Fox pictures.

Years ago, Miss O'Neill left the New York theatre for the featured role in "The Kreutzer Sonata," Fox production directed by Herbert Brenon. With that a success, she remained to complete "Fedora," "Hedda Gabler," "The Fires of St. John," and "The Sorcerer."

Zasu Pitts and Lawrence Grant head the supporting cast of "Their Mad Moment," which was co-directed by Hamilton MacFadden and Chandler Sprague.

Betty Nuthall and Mrs. Whittingstall Take U.S. Doubles

British Pair Defeats Helen Jacobs and Dorothy Round, 6-2, 6-4—Mrs. Helen Wills Moody Captures Women's Singles Championship

FOREST HILLS, N.Y., Aug. 24 (AP)—Great Britain's crack combination of Betty Nuthall and Eileen Bennett Whittingstall today salvaged doubles honors in the forty-fourth annual women's tennis tournament at Forest Hills.

The British pair, relying on a concerted net attack, defeated Helen Jacobs, of Berkeley, Cal., and Dorothy Round, of England, 6-2, 6-4, in the final match postponed from yesterday at the request of Miss Round. Concentrating on their countrywoman, the winners broke through Miss Round's service four times in two sets and forced her into repeated errors.

The championship team succeeds that of Miss Nuthall and Sarah Palfrey, of Sharon, Mass., which won the title a year ago.

MRS. MOODY WINS

Mrs. Helen Wills Moody, still the impressive, perfect tennis player, came back yesterday to claim her place atop the women's tennis world by defeating Mrs. Eileen Bennett Whittingstall, England, in straight sets in the finals of the national women's singles.

The scores, 6-4, 6-1, indicate the ease and dispatch with which Helen turned back the last of sixty-three players who questioned her right to the throne she relinquished a year ago. It took her twenty-four minutes to subdue her slighter opponent in the opening set, but she ran through the second in ten minutes.

SONS DOWN EAGLES IN SLOW GAME

Canadians Capture Mediocre Exhibition From Feathered Tribe, 13-7

GANDY AND HOLMAN SMASH OUT HOMERS

TURNING eleven hits into thirteen runs, Sons of Canada continued their bid for the Brundage Cup in the special challenge series last night at the Royal Athletic Park in the Senior Amateur Baseball League by downing the Eagles in a mediocre exhibition before a small turnout of fans, by a 13-7 score.

Outside of two circuit drives from the bats of George Gandy and Bill Holman, the game was slow and uninteresting. With nothing at stake, the players did more clowning than playing baseball.

Roy Haines started on the mound for the Sons, and after getting by the first inning he bumped into plenty of trouble and went to his usual position in the outfield, and Gann replaced him. The Canadians took a three-run lead in the first frame, but the feathered tribe came back in the second to score six runs with the assistance of Gandy's homer. Before the inning ended, the Sons scored four more runs to go out in front never to be headed again.

The Canadians added five more tallies in the third. Holman hit a home run with two on for the most damaging blow of the inning. Duncan led the batters with perfect averages for the evening.

RUTH CLOSES IN ON LEADER

Bambino Has Perfect Day to Raise Average to Within Two Points of Simmons

(Associated Press)

Hitting safely four times for a perfect day at bat, with his thirty-seventh home run of the season, Babe Ruth tossed in for good measure. Babe Ruth boomed his batting average six points yesterday and climbed to within two points of Al Simmons, Athletic slugger, who was idle again. The Babe is now hitting .383 to Simmons' .385. Eddie Morgan's three hits in three tries, including a homer, boosted the Indian's hitter a point.

Billy Terry, Giant's first baseman, picked up a point along with two homers during the day, but the National League leaders, Davis and Klein, of the Phillies, were both without a hit.

CHICAGO HANDBOOK OPERATOR MISSING

CHICAGO, Aug. 24—Friends of John H. "Jack" Lynch, pioneer Chicago handbook operator and heavy stockholder in the Arlington Park race track, disclosed last night that he had been missing since last Thursday and that ransom demands for $250,000 had been made by men who supposedly had abducted him.

The business man dashed into the employment exchange.

"Look here," he said to the clerk, "I'm looking for a cashier."

The clerk looked somewhat surprised.

"Why, sir," he said, "I thought I furnished you with one last week."

"I know," came the irritable reply. "That's the one I'm looking for."

Officials Unable to Explain Why Williams Did Not Run

VANCOUVER, Aug. 24—"We heard rumors on Friday that Percy Williams would not run, but were assured," declared Walter Leek, president of the Vancouver Exhibition Association, in a statement today, discussing the track meet on Saturday.

"There was no intention on the part of the exhibition association to mislead the public. If Percy had not promised to compete there would have been no meet," he said.

"The first intimation we had that he was not going to run was when Eddie Toland and Frank Wykoff lined up for the start. Percy had taken part in all the preparations for the meet and in a broadcast Thursday night, said nothing of the possibility that he might not run."

EXPLANATION FOR SUNDAY'S RIPLEY CARTOON

Where Ships Cross Mountains—The Oberlin-Sandwich (highland) Canal in East Prussia is noted for its extreme beauty, technicality and uniqueness, even for a land with as many waterways as Germany. But it is best characterized by the fact that its ships actually ride over mountains. A chain of East Prussian lakes are joined by a 125-mile canal, built in sections, and divided by a series of hills. Transportation of the boats over the hills is accomplished by means of heavy railroad trucks on wide gauge tracks, drawn by huge cables.

Harry C. Morse Caught a Large Trout on His Nose—Mr. Morse, now owner and manager of a Penn. Yan. N.Y. theatre, was seven years old on August 27, 1873. His mother, to celebrate the anniversary, took him for a rowboat ride on Lake Keuka—which ride almost cost young Morse his nose. Leaning far over the side of the rowboat, he suddenly jumped back with a scream, attracting his mother's attention to his badly lacerated nose and the floundering trout simultaneously. The trout, which weighed eight pounds, had jumped out of the water, bitten the child's nose, and held on to it with such tenacity that it was pulled into the boat.

Dempsey Kayoes Two More in Portland Ring

Manassa Mauler Puts Pair of Rose City Heavies to Sleep in Quick Order—Two More Last Two Rounds Each—17,000 Spectators

PORTLAND, Aug. 24 (AP)—Boring in from the first belt, Jack Dempsey laid low Big Bill Hartwell, Boston negro, in a little over one minute of the first round of their four-round exhibition fight here tonight. The second victim of the ex-champion's right arm was Dave McKee, Tulsa, Okla. He lasted less than one minute of the first round, and landed a couple of blows that straightened him up.

Dempsey lowered his attack to the body and did not seem to mind the pace.

The crowd, set by the management at about 17,000, cheered Dempsey's four knockouts Sunday morning and captured the lion's share of the honors in the weekly meeting of Victoria Gun Club.

McGarry tied with E. Hassenratz in the Dominion Cup shoot with a score of 24, but he won the shoot-off. He also tied with L. North in the Club and McGarry shoot with scores of 25, and again won the shoot-off. In the Colonial Cup meet, McGarry headed the field with a total of 23 birds out of the possible 25.

WRIGHT AND MISS BOYCE WIN TITLES

Capture I.B.A.A. Net Crowns by Wins Over Temple and Mrs. Erickson

CHAMPS NAMED IN DOUBLES SECTIONS

Alan Wright and "Biddy" Boyce, two young net stars, crowned themselves men's and women's singles champions of the I.B.A.A. Tennis Club, Sunday, by defeating Ivan Temple and Mrs. W. Erickson, respectively, after two of the hardest fought matches of the tournament. Both monarchs were carried to extra sets before ascending their thrones.

In doubling Temple, Wright turned in a fine performance. The champ dropped the first set at 6-2, but rallied with the assistance of a strong forehand drive to capture the second set after extra games, 7-5. Recovering some of his earlier form, Temple went out in front against his younger opponent and took the third set at 6-3. After the intermission, Wright shot over a flurry of baffling drives which caught Temple out of position, and the champion won the fourth and fifth sets, 6-3, 6-2.

GREAT RALLIES

Brilliant rallies featured the Miss Boyce-Mrs. Erickson match. "Biddy" won the initial set at 6-4, but Mrs. Erickson came right back to even the count by winning the second set after extra games, 8-6. Playing her usual game, Miss Boyce annexed the title by capturing the third and final set, 6-2.

Mrs. Erickson teamed with Wright in winning the mixed doubles from Mrs. W. Thompson and Cliff Margison, 5-7, 6-4, 6-3, while Miss Boyce figured in her second triumph of the day by taking the women's doubles with Miss V. Williams from Mrs. Thomas and Mrs. Erickson, 2-6, 6-4, 6-2.

Ivan Temple and Cliff Margison captured the men's doubles title by winning from Alan Wright and W. Erickson, 6-4, 6-4, 6-1.

JACK MATSON SAYS WEST TO SOON GET MAJOR TOURNAMENT

Captain of British Columbia Golf Team Declares Eastern Officials Practically Approved Giving Tournament to Western Province—Tells of Impression Youthful Coast Team Made

Harold Brynjolfson to Take Up Position at Vancouver Shortly

The 1933 Canadian amateur golf championship is practically assured for British Columbia, according to a statement made yesterday by Jack Matson, captain of the provincial team which competed in the Willington Cup match and the Dominion tournament at Montreal recently. Matson returned home yesterday morning and declared that officials of the Royal Canadian Golf Association had practically assured delegates that the tournament would be given to the West.

While at Chicago the team watched Philadelphia Athletics and Chicago White Sox battle, and "Lefty" Grove equaled the American League record by chalking up his sixteenth consecutive victory. Matson said that Grove threw the ball so fast that one could hardly see it.

British Columbia's team received a great reception during the trip, and invitations to play at various courses throughout Canada and United States poured in.

This evening Matson, Brynjolfson and Morrison will be the guests of the Uplands Golf Club at a dinner. Captains and professionals of all the local clubs have been invited to attend. Fred Dillabough, genial skipper of the Uplands Club, will preside.

JOKERS WIN CLOSE GAME

Down Duncan in Second Game of Island Softball Play-Offs by 8-7 Score

THIRD FIXTURE IS CARDED WEDNESDAY

With Lloyd Jones twirling one of the greatest games of his youthful career, the Jokers, Lower Island champions, defeated the Dundas Maple Leafs, Mid-Island winners, in the second fixture of the Vancouver Island championship Sunday afternoon on the Up-Island grounds.

The third game will be played Wednesday evening at the Victoria West Park, and the fourth necessary, next Sunday on a neutral field. The first tilt ended in a 2-2 score after eleven innings.

A large crowd witnessed the battle and was treated to some good playing by both sides. The lead saw-sawed from one team to the other throughout with the Jokers gaining a slight edge in the late frames. In the eleventh the local nine pushed across two runners to win out. Duncan traded a desperate rally in their half of the last inning but it was checked in the bud.

THREE HOME RUNS

Mike Wagland and Ivan Sweeney smashed out circuit drives for the Jokers, while McDonald performed the trick for the Up-Islanders. Evans went the distance for Dundas, Aitken and Saxton upheld.

Doctor Dick's Letter Box

TIM MATSON

Dear Doctor,

I often wonder about the children of Royalty. Do they have any real fun? Do they behave like ordinary children—pop flies on windows, and pour treacle down their noses' necks, etc., or is their life just a tedious circle of pomp and ceremony, from birth?

Yours curiously,
MOTHER OF TEN.

Dear Mother of Ten,

The childhood days of future Kings and Queens vary. In some Sovereigns, Princes and Princesses revel in an atmosphere of Mediaeval pomp, while others abhor it.

For instance, I believe one of the earliest official acts of our rather unobscure cousin, the Ex-Kaiser, was to order rubber underwear for his courtiers and attendants, that they might bow lower, and with greater speed and elasticity.

On the other hand, I believe many a blood Prince of today, has, on more than one occasion, played royal tacks upon the regal divan, and when the tacks had been withdrawn, the life of a mummy monarch is anything but what the Fairy Books have depicted us with, for so many years.

Personally, I think the childhood days of Royalty must be the happiest. With the weight of Crown and Ermine, and the eternal duties and personal sacrifices, thereby compelled, the life of a mummy monarch is anything but what the Fairy Books have depicted us with, for so many years.

Yours, answering an invitation from Buckingham Palace,
DOCTOR DICK.

MRS. M. HUDDLESTON SWIMS LAKE TAOHE

TAHOE CITY, Cal., Aug. 24 (AP).

—After battling the icy waters of Lake Tahoe for nearly twenty-three hours, Mrs. Myrtle Huddleston, endurance swimmer, reached shore shortly before 7 o'clock this morning, completing her swim across the fifteen-mile-wide lake.

For about two hours last night Mrs. Huddleston was separated from her escort of rowboats and it was feared that she had gone down. She finally was located about two miles from shore, still paddling resolutely.

On being located, Mrs. Huddleston said she had suffered several sinking spells and vomiting attacks. She refused to quit and said she would swim as long as she was conscious.

Previously a wind had blown her about eight miles off her course. Mrs. Huddleston's object was to win a $700 prize offered by a Tahoe organization for the first woman to swim the lake.

Being 6,235 feet above sea level, Lake Tahoe waters are extremely cold, even on warm days.

CALENDAR REFORM

Sir,—How many of your readers know that for years on this side of the Atlantic there has been a well-organized, well-financed and determined movement on foot to do what has never been done or attempted except by the avowed enemies of all religion, namely, to break up and destroy the calendar of the seven-day week which has come down to us in unbroken cycle from the remote past, and which Christians have always believed to have been established by the Creator himself.

I refer to the Calendar Reform movement which is sponsored by Moses Cotsworth and backed by the multi-millionaire Eastman of camera fame, and which has been pressed into the councils of the nations directly and through the League of Nations. As the matter comes up for final decision at the Fall sittings of the League of Nations at Geneva, to which sixty-four nations have been invited to send representatives on the calendar question, it is time to sit up and take notice, or we may cry out when it is too late.

The position briefly is as follows: The present calendar months, varying in length and with regard to the weekly cycle, do not provide a uniform basis for the comparative statistics so important to large business concerns. A system was therefore devised, and has been adopted by many large businesses in the States, whereby the year is divided for accounting purposes into thirteen months of four complete weeks each. The proposal now is to reform our calendar so as to make this system universal and compulsory on all.

It so happens that thirteen months of twenty-eight days do not exactly fit in with the year in civil year, but leave one extra day over in an ordinary year and two such days in a leap year. It is proposed to make these extra days "blank days," not named after any day of the week, and, as it were, to ignore their existence in reckoning; but as no argument can obliterate them from the scheme, the result is that we will have "week" of eight days once every year and twice in leap years.

This is where the trouble comes in. In the week following the blank day, a man will wake up in the morning on what in the usual course would be Sunday, but the law and the calendar tells him that it is only Saturday. But suppose the man devoutly believes the seven-day week and its rest day to be of Divine appointment, beyond the power of man to alter, he is immediately brought into cruel conflict between his material wants and his religious convictions. To be keeping Sabbath on Saturday when other people are working is awkward enough, and this must go on for a whole year, but the next year he is in a worse plight. He must that year keep his rest day on Friday, and the following year on Thursday, and so on. In order to keep Sabbath in leap year he will twice have to go back a day with reference to the world in general, who it is presumed will fall in with the new calendar. How is a man going to get employment who knocks off a day in the middle of every week, and how are his children to carry on at school or college?

Those who would deny the Divine origin of the week have been unable to devise any plausible explanation for the immemorial fixity of the weekly period which has marched on, undisturbed, through all the changing scenes and changing calendars of human life. That no interruption of the weekly cycle has ever occurred so far as known is the unanimous testimony of the astronomers who have been consulted on both sides of the Atlantic. A unanimous protest should be made without delay by all who regard the weekly period as of Divine appointment and reverence the weekly rest-day accordingly.

The protest should be joined in by every thoughtful citizen who would not stand aside and be a party to doing violence to the conscience or living of even a small minority of his good fellow citizens, merely to bring in a measure of reform which may be good for big business, but of doubtful advantage to the community as a whole.

A form of petition against the introduction of a blank day calendar will be furnished to anyone on application to the undersigned. These petitions will be forwarded through the proper channels for presentation to the League of Nations Committee at Geneva in October.

THE LUXURY AGE
Sir,—If one came to consider seriously the cause of the present world-wide depression, one could sum up the direct cause in one word—"Greed."

It is an unpleasant statement to realize. Take, however, the Old Country. The contented, happy workingman was called upon to serve during the war. What happened?

The wives at home began to handle more money. Fur coats (real or imitation) became the vogue. At the close of activities pawnbrokers advertised in daily papers that no more fur coats would be accepted. This is the start of dissatisfaction. Take Canada and the education question. You cannot put more than a quart of cream into a pail, and the amount. So why try to make children learn more than is healthy for their minds? An extra expense to the parents and discomfort to the children. We cannot all be millionaires. Cotton is a great necessity also, so if we are not unbleached calico, let us try to learn to do the laundry.

I notice today in the Colonist our Bishop of London says: "Christianity is the remedy for the present-time depression. It makes one think of the definition of the word, so easily spoken, 'Christianity.' To my idea it means serving God and to serve God means to serve one another. This is the only real way."

One of the great lessons which may be learnt by present-day conditions is contentment. This may be heard across Canada, by sound extraordinary, but it is the sound is correct. The incident which follows is true:

A child of working people came one morning to borrow some little thing of me. It was early and I was making toast over the fire. The child, whose father was out of work, exclaimed, "Mother always uses an electric toaster, and I want one." This was not because of the need of fuel. Their fire went on all day, it being winter. Electric washing machines, radios, autos, radios, expensive clothes, with no thought of the future. All the boys to become doctors, lawyers, or teachers, because they enjoy free education. Certainly, teach the three R's, and if a child has intelligence, it will quickly endeavor to acquire more and become something more than a child.

Contentment in whatever walk of life is a great benefit, and serving one another will soon help to banish depression and gloom.

JELICOFF'S SPEECH WILL BE BROADCAST

MONTREAL, Aug. 24.—The voice of Earl Jellicoff, the British Admiral who played such a prominent part in world history during the last war, will be heard across Canada, by means of arrangements now being completed by the radio department of the Canadian National Railways.

The special broadcast, which will link up Canadian National and other stations from coast to coast, will take place from 5:30 to 6:30 p.m. Pacific Coast time, Monday, August 31, on the occasion of the banquet given by the Ontario Government to the delegates to the fifth biennial conference of the British Empire Service League.

The banquet will be held at Niagara Falls. Colonel Van Der Shyfs will be toastmaster, and among the other distinguished speakers, in addition to Earl Jellicoff, will be Major General Sir Frederick Maurice and several Cabinet ministers.

THE BATTLE OF BEVERLY
No. III—Oulmet and Guilford
The first time I saw Francis Oulmet hit a golf ball was at Garden City in the amateur championship of 1913, when he planted a maulie shot eight feet from the cup on the eighteenth green and just missed his 2. He had a 75 that round and later gave Jerry Travers the hardest battle the champion had.

Outside of Boston he was almost unknown up to that point—a youth of about twenty. A short while later at Brookline, in the United States open, he had to finish 3-3-4 to tie Vardon and Ray—and he did just that. The next day in the playoff, sandwiched in between the two great English stars, he wasn't believed to have a chance. He not only won, but beat their best ball with a 72 over a rain-soaked course. There was the most dramatic golf match ever played, and will remain so until you and I have had the divots replaced above our dust.

A year later at Ekwanok, Oulmet stopped the march of Jerry Travers in the amateur championship. That was seventeen years ago, but Oulmet, still one of the most beloved of all competitors, no matter what the game, is still playing golf, is still a factor, as he proved at Pebble Beach two years ago when he went to the semi-final round. Oulmet is still a fine golfer and he isn't yet forty. He still must be reckoned with.

What about Jesse Guilford? The first time I saw the siege gun play was at Ekwanok in 1914, the year Oulmet won. Guilford was hitting the ball such prodigious distances that the crowd left closer matches to see him handle the howitzer. Walter J. Travis remarked at the time that Guilford had the most perfect full swing he had ever seen—a swing that traveled in a complete circle. Guilford was outlasting opponents from sixty to eighty yards. As I look back on that day, I feel that this is a good chance to arouse the pair of you to a state of lesser laziness.

Memory is one of the greatest blessings we humans possess! And as we grow older, day by day we fall back more and more on the old friendships and dwell more often on the events of the past.

But, thank goodness, it is the highlights that we recall with the greatest pleasure; those most delightful "keen" spots in the labored pictures that our brains, or our inner egos, store up for future use, to be revived when in the happy presence of old chums, or to be related when we foregather with our contemporary cronies at dusk round the fireside and in the twilight of our allotted apes.

Nothing more clearly indicates the excellent condition of the roads in British Columbia, and the interest that has been created abroad by the activities of the publicity bureau, provincial and civic, than the greatly augmented flow of tourist traffic over the principal highways.

Receipts from the toll gate at the Alexander Bridge on the Fraser Canyon Highway are more than 30 per cent greater than for the same period last year, while traffic through the Okanagan Valley shows an increase of more than 13 per cent.

Reports show that where there has been a falling-off in the volume from the nearer states, traffic from California has increased enormously, due largely to the fact that the Southern State has been more assiduously cultivated of late, than formerly.

The Olympic Games will bring a great concourse of visitors to Los Angeles next year from all competing countries, and it is reasonable to expect that a large proportion of them will visit the Pacific Northwest. A concentrated drive will be made to attract the visitors from abroad to British Columbia, and plans to that end are already under consideration.

GERMAN FLYERS REACH LISBON

Complete First Leg of Projected Transatlantic Flight
Via Azores

LISBON, Portugal, Aug. 24 (AP).

—Willy Rody and Christian Johannsen, German flyers, who left Berlin Saturday on the first leg of a projected transatlantic flight, arrived here today.

The flyers, from whom there had been no word since their departure, dropped unexpectedly from the sky at the Amadora Military Airborne at 4:22 o'clock this afternoon. Only two officers were present to welcome them. Their plane remained at Amadora only a few minutes then hopped to the Alverca International Airport, where it made a perfect landing.

Rody said they expected to make a non-stop flight to New York by way of the Azores, weather permitting, and would attempt a return flight to Berlin by way of Ireland.

Just Roamin' Around

By TWO ROVERS

"What a lot of things we have to be thankful for, Rover!" I remarked. The occasion was an afternoon on the rocky heights of Gonzales, not far from the Observatory, and warm at that.

"Please don't start making a list, or enumeration, of all the lot, master," said Rover, "or Miss Lillian will go to sleep again, and I shall be bored to death!"

"That's not very kind, Rover," I replied. "But, in deference to your easily-bored self and to Miss Lillian, I will only draw your attention, for a moment, to one thing for which I am deeply grateful, as I feel that this is a good chance to arouse the pair of you to a state of lesser laziness."

SUSPICIOUS OF VISITORS
Flying Over and Landing in Country, Aviators Worry Japanese Authorities

TOKIO, Aug. 24 (AP).—Rengo, semi-official Japanese news agency, said today "suspicious" had been aroused because of the course followed by Colonel and Mrs. Charles A. Lindbergh along a certain portion of the Kurile Island route in their much-retarded flight from Petropavlovsk, Kamchatka, to Nemuro, Japan.

The news agency said Japanese authorities contended the famous aviator and his wife had flown over prohibited areas and had descended twice at places where landings were prohibited.

High Government officials, however, apparently did not take seriously the report. The high authorities pointed out that the matter quite naturally might have been discussed in some circles, but nothing more.

A report that Amy Johnson, British aviatrix, who returned to Osaka after reaching Fusan, Korea, because of storms, would be questioned by the police, had not reached Government officials tonight. However, Government authorities expressed the belief that she might be asked, as a matter of routine, regarding her route, as police make out reports of such cases.

THAT REMINDS ME
There is no mistake about it, looking back on days that are gone, more often than not, will make them seem just a little bit better than they were, and the highlights will shine the brighter if we deliberately try to forget the crude and the horrible and only remember what gave us joy, and what good times we had, in spite of it all!

WILL EXPERIMENT WITH FERTILIZER

Government to Provide Chemical for Competition Among Farmers of Saanich

KEATINGE, Aug. 24.—Farmers of the South Saanich Institute listened to a very interesting address delivered by Paul Black, of the Department of Agriculture, at the monthly meeting held at the Temperance Hall, East Saanich Road, on Thursday night.

Mr. Black spoke on soil and crops and gave the farmers some useful information along these lines. An experiment is to be carried out on one acre of land to test out the value of certain fertilizers.

The Government will provide these free to members, who will enter the competition to crop one acre of land, but the fertilizer, the other half to be cropped without. This should be a real test as to the value of commercial fertilizers. A large number of entries for this competition is assured, according to George Spencer, the secretary.

W. D. Mitchell presided, and there was a good attendance.

PRODUCE MARKET

The following market news letter for August 24 was issued yesterday by the Market News Bureau, a division of the Department of Agriculture:

AT SALMON ARM
Weather conditions continue ideal for harvesting Wealthy apples. There is a rush on at the present time filling a South African order for about a dozen cars. The apples here are sizing well and are of excellent color. A condition has developed, due to frost at setting time, which has resulted in a small leaf-shaped blight on the stem end of the Wealthy. It does not injure the apple in any way and looks artistic. There is a fair demand for the variety, inspectors are grading down extra fancy and fancy apples to O grade, thus giving the public extra fancy and fancy stock at a C grade price. There is a good crop of Wealthies in this district.

AT CALGARY
A liberal supply of berries arrived this morning and price unchanged. Some strawberries were showing slight mould. Cantaloupes are selling better at the low new price. One car of Household Duchesse arrived and sold at 90¢ delivered. The third car of bulk cranberries arrived today. These are selling well at 90¢ to $1.00 per box, weighing about thirty-eight pounds gross. The market has righted itself on semi-ripe tomatoes and better prices are prevailing today. The first car of Spanish onions arrived on Saturday. Local potatoes are now being marketed at $15.00 to $18.00 per ton. Still a good supply of local green vegetables available. Weather hot and dry.

AT VANCOUVER
Excerpt from report of British Columbia Livestock Exchange, Ltd., August 22, 1931:

Cattle—The cattle market exhibited a strong tone all week, with comparatively light receipts. Indications are that heavy shipments will be coming later on in the season and prospects are that prices will not be higher than at present prevailing.

Hogs—The hog market witnessed further decline of 50¢ per 100 this week, with slow trading in all classes. Feeders also moved very slowly.

Sheep—The lamb market was off a quarter from last week under a moderate volume of receipts. It is hoped that the 7¢ price level will be maintained, but Eastern markets are very uncertain.

Mrs. Fleetfoot's Clever Trick

By THORNTON W. BURGESS

A mother's love knows no defeat; There is no test it will not meet.—Old Mother Nature.

Kid Antelope and his twin sister lay as flat as they could, their long necks stretched out on the ground and their gray-and-brown coats looking so like their surroundings that had you happened along you probably would not have seen them at all. You would merely have seen two little lumps on the ground, apparently parts of the ground. They were not together, but a little way apart. Near Kid Antelope was a stone, and he was looking at it. He looked very like a companion stone. His sister was partly under a bush. In their big, soft eyes was a look of wonder rather than fear. They were not old enough to know what fear was. Their mother had told them to lie flat and not move, no matter what happened, until she came, and they wouldn't move. It was enough that mother had told them not to.

They were in dreadful danger, but they didn't know it, which was just as well. Mr. Speedfoot the Coyote was very near them and looking for them. But if they didn't know, their mother did. Never had she known such dreadful safety. Off in another direction Speedfoot was moving carefully search for those same babies, but all the time he was going farther and farther from them. They were hidden. There was nothing to worry about from him. The danger lay with Mrs. Speedfoot. It was Mrs. Speedfoot who did it. She was a flash she had turned to plume at him again. She was the picture of a fighting fury. No longer did Speedfoot have any doubt as to where those babies were. Nor did Mrs. Speedfoot have any doubt. She had heard that snort of rage and looked up to see that attack on Speedfoot. It could mean but one thing—that the babies were over there.

With a yelp Mrs. Speedfoot leaped forward and sped to join in that battle. There was now no more doubt in her mind as to where those babies were than there was in the mind of Speedfoot. Mrs. Fleetfoot had driven Speedfoot away from that little patch of brush. He saw Mrs. Speedfoot coming and gradually backed still farther. He was trying to draw Mrs. Fleetfoot away from that brush. Mrs. Speedfoot saw and understood. She circled and made straight for that brush. Like a flash Mrs. Fleetfoot whirled and charged at her, driving her back. So, charging first one and then the other, Mrs. Fleetfoot fought, striking at them with her front feet, evading the leaps of her throat, and managing to keep either from getting behind her. And safe where they were hidden, Kid Antelope and his twin sister lay motionless, wondering what it was all about.

ESCAPED FROM BURNING BOAT

Occupants Have Close Call When Flames Destroy Launch on Sunday

VANCOUVER, Aug. 24 (CP).—Three unidentified young men, believed to reside in Vancouver, had a narrow escape from death Sunday evening when the thirty-four-foot gas launch Silver Hee burned and sank in English Bay, between Kitsilano and Sherman, West Vancouver.

Unable to cope with the blaze which swept the small boat, the men are reported to have attempted to escape from the burning vessel in a dinghy. They were unable to cut the tow rope, however, and were in danger of being pulled under with the sinking boat, when other launches went to their assistance.

Postmaster A. I. McDonald, of Sherman, states the fire started shortly after 10 o'clock in the afternoon. Occupants of the launch apparently landed in Vancouver, he stated.

The launch is registered in the name of John R. Nicholson, of this city, who has been absent from Vancouver for several weeks.

CROWDS PROTEST REIGN OF CRIME

NEW YORK, Aug. 24 (AP).—A community shocked by repeated gang killings of citizens roared and stamped its demand for a cessation of lawlessness in a dramatic mass meeting tonight in Madison Square Garden.

While speakers berated prohibition, criticized city officials, and called for drastic police activity against gangsters and racketeers before 20,000 persons, a blaring band and tumultuous shouts greeted his brief speech.

The doors of the Garden were closed, a few minutes after 8 o'clock, with more than 10,000 persons even then demanding ingress. The number outside soon was more than doubled.

BANDITS RETURN TO TRAP IN BUSH

HANLEY, Aug. 24.—Concealed in the secluded bush of some old logging property three miles east of Webster's Corners, the fortnightly vigilance of the police of Mission and Hanley and constables of the R.C.M.P., was rewarded at 4:30 this morning, when Hayne Bokuy, twenty-four, of 1060 West Broadway, Vancouver, and Walter Terpenen, twenty, of Webster's Corners, alleged safe stealers, were caught when the police sprung the trap.

Three others were with them at the time, but managed to escape. All the men are reported to be Finns.

STEALS AIRPLANE FOR DEATH RIDE

Makes First Solo Flight Declaring Intention of Murder and Suicide in Wreck

BISHOP, Cal., Aug. 24 (AP).—Watch was being maintained over three states tonight for a red and silver airplane, in which Henry Billingsley, inexperienced flyer, today abducted his two children after telling his estranged wife he intended to kill the small boys and himself by wrecking the plane.

A report from the desert and mountainous district to the west said a red and silver plane, flying toward Nevada, was seen to turn southward toward Los Angeles. Billingsley's wife, Rachel, told authorities her husband, "nervous and desperate," arrived at her home about 10 a.m. and forcibly removed Junior, five, and Gene, eight, as he drove away in an automobile. She said he called back that he intended to take them up in an airplane and "kill everybody."

She said she believed he was armed. Officials at the airport reported that Billingsley drove up and requested an airplane and pilot for a short flight. A pilot warned up the motors and Billingsley and the children installed themselves in the Nearer to the hidden twins drew Mrs. Speedfoot until she was only a few feet from Kid Antelope. She saw what looked like a couple of stones and turned to examine them. It was then that, with a snort of rage, Mrs. Fleetfoot charged—a picture of fury. But it wasn't at Mrs. Speedfoot. It was at Speedfoot, by now a considerable distance from the hidden twins. He was approaching a small patch of sagebrush.

He turned to meet her, with a snort and display of sharp teeth, but this time she didn't stop. She struck at him with her sharp hoofs, and he dodged barely in time to escape them. In a flash she had turned to plunge at him again. She was the picture of a fighting fury. No longer did Speedfoot have any doubt as to where those babies were. Nor did Mrs. Speedfoot have any doubt. THE TOONERVILLE TROLLEY THAT MEETS ALL THE TRAINS

A junior engineer working for the British Broadcasting Corporation has received the gift of an automobile from a man whom he met as a stranger in a restaurant. The engineer and the stranger, a New Zealander on a holiday in London, talked of motor cars, and in the course of the conversation the engineer ruefully remarked that his own car was now in a somewhat decrepit condition. "You had better have my car," said the stranger. "I am through with it." The incident had been forgotten by the engineer when, two days later, the car was driven up in front of his home, and an insurance policy came with it.

Citizens' Relief Fund Learns of Many Distressing Cases From Unemployment

"A protest lodged by the Trades and Labor Council against the collection of monthly contributions for the Victoria Citizens' Unemployed Fund from the wages of workingmen, is due to a misunderstanding," a representative of the citizens' committee says.

"The committee does not desire to force contributions from anyone who is struggling to make ends meet, but it does earnestly appeal to all who can do so to help according to their means. Any sum, in one payment or monthly installments, will be gratefully received, but the liberty of the individual to give, or refuse, will be respected. No one is expected to store up trouble for himself and his family by giving away what he cannot afford."

WAGE DONATIONS
"Monthly wage donations, of an amount to be agreed upon by the contributor, was suggested as a means of facilitating collection and saving collector and contributor time and trouble."

"Distress is rampant and all money that may be subscribed will be required for its alleviation. The rich man's thousands, and the poorer man's dollar, will go into the same fund and be used for the same purpose. The appeal is not confined to any class or creed; all are accorded an opportunity to help in this time of need."

"Ill-health, due to continued mental strain, produced by months of unemployment, has worked havoc in many families. Bare, unfurnished rooms are the homes of more than one. Unable to pay the rent of furnished apartments, they are compelled to leave them and move into unfurnished rooms where, with enfeebled bodies and distraught minds, they face a hopeless future.

DISTRESS IS ACUTE.
"It is useless trying to evade the fact that acute distress exists, and we cannot slacken our efforts until the spectre of want is removed from the lives of unfortunate citizens," the representative concluded.

More canvassers are needed. Any citizen willing to help is asked to call on Fred Landsberg, campaign manager, at headquarters, View and Broad Streets, or telephone G 1725. Contributions may be left at that address or with the treasurer, E. C. Smith, City Hall.

CULBERTSON on CONTRACT

by Ely Culbertson
World's Champion Player and Greatest Card Analyst

DEFENSIVE BID AND FORCING PASS

Most contract players are sufficiently familiar with the procedure of contract bidding so that they quickly recognize the bids considered forcing. Forcing bids are such as require a response from partner. Their use with hands of many types is everywhere recognized as essential in order that the proper bid shall be reached. Opening forcing bids carry with them an element of risk, as by their use the contract may be so high as to risk defeat. It is for this reason that the standard of hands strong enough to force partner to respond has been made so high.

However familiar players may be with the usual types of forcing bid, there are few who would ever recognize a pass as a forcing bid. When the pass becomes a force it is at a stage in the bidding when it is certain that the partnership can make a score on the hand either by penalizing their opponents through collecting a penalty for their overbid, or by securing a game or slam at the best declaration in the combined hands. In the hand which illustrates the text of this article, North's pass of West's defensive bid of six hearts is a pass which requires a response from his partner. Of course, North knows that six hearts cannot be made and the one question is whether a bid of seven can be made by the North and South partnership or whether they must be content with the penalty collected for defeating the adverse bid. South in this case is in a much better position to decide the question and North decides to leave him untrammelled in his decision. If North should double six hearts it would be a statement to his partner that he was so much in doubt of the ability to score a grand slam with the combined hands that he believed the double of six hearts the better course for the partnership. It is true that this does not necessarily prevent a bid of seven by South, but it cannot do other than influence him in reaching a decision. North knows that his partner is also well aware that West cannot make six hearts as require a response from his partner. If the bid of six hearts is passed, as it was in this case, then South must do one of two things, either bid for grand slam or double the adverse bid. It is in this interesting situation, and the illustration given is very illuminating.

Neither side vulnerable; West Dealer.

1. A slam try, indicating no heart losers.
2. As East must be short in diamonds, this looks like a good sacrifice.
3. A forcing pass. North knows that six hearts cannot be made, but by passing, lets South know that a grand slam is still a possibility. South must either double or bid.
4. South decides to try for the probable grand slam (1,500 points) in preference to a sure set of three—a total of 400.

In the play South went down one, as after West showed three diamonds, he elected to play West for two spades and either one club or no clubs. On the second round of spades, West over-ruffed. The hand can be made by a different line of play.

TODAY'S POINTER

Strength Responses to a Takeout Double

A hand containing two honor tricks is a fairly strong hand considering that partner has made a takeout double, which shows at least three honor tricks. Combined hands will have five out of eight honor tricks, and if the doubler holds more than three honor tricks or a favorable distribution, a game is in sight.

Partner informs the doubler that his hand is better than the minimum and contains at least two honor tricks by making, whenever possible, a jump response—higher bid than necessary. If, of course, not a forcing bid, and if a major suit is thus shown it may have as little as Q J x x or K x x x in the suit.

To illustrate: East can make a jump two spade response to partner's double of one heart with

Spades	Q J 7 2
Hearts	8 6
Diamonds	A 7 5 3
Clubs	K 6 5 4

or with

Spades	J 8 6 3 2
Hearts	8 6
Diamonds	A 3 2
Clubs	A 4 3 2

This is the only case in contract where partner is justified in making a jump bid on a non-biddable trump suit. Such a procedure is quite safe because the doubler must logically infer that (a) partner merely attempts to show better than the minimum hand; (b) he certainly does not hold a very strong suit, for otherwise he would have made a double jump. Jump responses after opponent's one no-trump should be avoided when vulnerable on any but very strong hands.

That Body of Yours

PREVENTING DECAY OF THE TEETH

I sometimes wonder if mothers who have children who actually like spinach and milk, realize how fortunate that youngster is from the standpoint of health in general and teeth in particular.

Dr. Bunting, of the United States, and Dr. Mellanby, of England, have done a great deal of research work on the teeth, and their results have proven definitely that if the diet is properly balanced it will prevent this decay.

They recommend that all youngsters be given plenty of fresh milk and green vegetables. They found that children so fed grew normally, were in good health, and were notably free from common colds and other infectious diseases. Also that decay of the teeth was almost completely prevented.

Now my thought is that as a youngster gets older he is likely to cut down on his milk and green vegetables and eat more starchy food. Just as the milk and green vegetables were needed to prevent decay in the first or baby set of teeth, so also are they needed to prevent decay in the second or permanent set.

What does this decay mean to the boy or girl, man or woman?

That food will not be properly chewed and many stomach and intestinal ailments get their start from this simple cause.

And when you think of the great number of cases of tonsillitis, then rheumatism, and then heart disease that follow as a result of bad teeth, it is certainly time that we gave this matter of preventing decayed teeth its rightful place in our thoughts.

A strong, bright man or woman of great use to the family or community life is stricken with rheumatism, and aside from the pain and inconvenience he suffers, his contribution of mental or physical work is lost. Repeated attacks may cause permanent crippling.

Notwithstanding all that our hygienists have said about physicians blaming all ailments on the teeth, the fact remains that the majority of cases of rheumatism and heart disease can be traced directly to bad teeth and tonsils.

The thought then that should always be with you, is that no matter what other food you eat you should try and eat some green vegetable every day. And if you like spinach you are very fortunate because it is an ideal food in preventing decay of teeth.
